

Fund Description

The objective of the Fund is to provide you with an exposure to the ICE BofAML Commodity index eXtra O3 Index Total Return (the “MLCX” or “Index”). The Index is intended to reflect the performance of commodities from six broad sectors: energy, base metals, precious metals, grains; oilseeds, soft commodities and livestock. The Index commodities are represented by futures contracts (i.e. contracts to buy or sell commodities at a fixed price in the future). Each contract is replaced by a new contract upon its expiry. Target weights for each Index commodity will be determined annually, and will be reset on a monthly basis. To achieve its objective, the Fund will: enter into a total return swap to obtain exposure to the Index, and enter into one or more 'cash management' transactions with the fund's cash proceeds such as entering into in a reverse repurchase agreement (under which the Fund will buy securities from a counterparty with an agreement to sell back such securities at a future date); or the purchase of a portfolio of transferable securities and/or collective investment undertakings. The Fund is passively managed and is managed in reference to the Index.

There can be no assurance that the investment objective of the Fund will be achieved and investment results may vary substantially over time. Investments in the Fund places an investor's capital at risk. The price and value of investments may fluctuate and investors may lose all or a substantial portion of their investment. Past performance is not indicative of future results.

Monthly Commentary

The Lumyna – BOFA MLCX Commodity Enhanced Beta UCITS Fund USD C (acc) rallied in March. The key bullish commodities were Gold and Brent. On the other side, Corn and Wheat were the most bearish commodities. While the SPXT index finished negatively the month of March (–5.63%), the commodity complex was a good diversifier with its positive performance.

Positive contributors

- Gold was the best performer in March, returning +0.98%. Gold active contract rallied more than 9% during the month and breached the US$3,000/oz record level. A confluence of factors, mostly driven by the Trump Administration's economic policy mix, have pushed investors and central banks to increase their allocations to the yellow metal. There is a strong safe-haven demand amid concerns over Trump's trade war as the American President is considering imposing higher trade tariffs on several countries when his pre-announced reciprocal tariff plans go live on April 2. Finally, new tensions in the Middle East were also a major catalyst.
- Similarly, Brent was the second strongest performer, contributing +0.53% to the fund. Oil prices rallied during the month on the back of reduced supply due to sanction and tariff pressures as well as falling US inventory levels. The market has been bullish due to different events. First, Trump Authorized 25% secondary tariff on Venezuela Oil Buyers. Oil also rallied as US ramped up sanctions against Iranian Crude by sanctioning a Chinese oil refinery and its CEO for allegedly buying Iranian oil. Finally, Military strikes on Houthi Rebels and a renewed offensive in Gaza were two other catalysts.

Negative contributors

- Corn was the worst performer in March. The fund was invested in the September contract which decreased by 3.44% during the month. The market was bearish on the back of the trade war as Beijing announced tariffs on a slew of US farm products, including corn, as part of its countermeasures against Washington, further ratcheting up tensions between the world's two biggest economies. Moreover, the March WASDE report was a bit of a non-event showing that world production for 24/25 is projected higher by 2m MT, driven by higher production in Russia and Ukraine. Further, world exports for 24/25 are forecast 2.87m MT lower driven by South Africa and Brazil.
- Wheat was the second worst performer on the back of the same rationale as Corn. The trade war and China's reciprocal tariffs were a catalyst and the worries about the reciprocal tariffs expected beginning of April also weighed on the agricultural complex. The Black Sea negotiations between Russia and Ukraine also drag down prices as it would increase the Wheat exports.

Risk Considerations

The risk category has been calculated based upon simulation of the Fund's performance using historical data, which may not be a reliable indicator of the Fund's future risk profile. The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change over time. The lowest category (category 1) does not mean that the investment is risk-free.

The Fund is rated 6 due to the nature of its investments which include the following risks:

- Derivatives risk : The Fund may use derivatives for investment purposes. Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based, which may result in greater fluctuations in the value of the Fund. The impact to the Fund can be greater where derivatives are used in an extensive or complex way.
- Commodity sector concentration risk : Investment risk is concentrated in the commodities sector. This means the Fund is more sensitive to commodity related events.

The following are additional risks which are not captured in the risk category:

- Counterparty risk : The risk that the other party to a transaction with the Fund may fail to fulfil its contractual obligations and may expose the Fund to financial losses.
- Investment risks: A prospective investor should appreciate that the value of any investment, and any income from any investment, may go down as well as up and that an investor's capital is at risk and the investor may not receive back the amount invested. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results.

Your investment is not guaranteed and its value can go down as well as up. For more information about risk, please see the 'Risk Factors' section of the prospectus, which is available at www.lumyna.com.
